WHITE HOUSE EXPENDITURE

Increase in Appropriation Subject of Criticism.

GROWING EXTRAVAGANCE

Mr. Gaines Does Not Think People Should Be Taxed for "Endless Chain Entertainments" -- Mr. Jones Has Philippine Item Amend'd.

The House made slow progress with the sundry civil bill to-day, covering only twenty-seven pages and leaving forty pages still to be disposed of. The delays to-day were occasioned by a ratner protracted discussion of the item in the bill for the maintenance of the White House, and considerable debate upon the item ap-propriating $300,000 for the relief of distressed Filipinos. Mr. Morgan, of Ten-nessee, and Mr. Fitzgerald (Democrat), of New York, criticised the greatly increased cost of maintaining the White House, Ar amendment to cut in half the appropriation for the relief of distress in the Philippines was defeated, but the language of the paragraph was modified to require annual reports of the expenditure of the

Mr. Cannon replied by calling attention to the enlargement o. the White House and the construction of the new executive offices. These changes, he said, increased expenses. Mr. Gaines read from the report of Colonel Bingham, Superintendent of Public Billdings and Grounds, extracts ascribing the increase of the expenses at the White House to the "large amount of entertaining done by the President." Mr. Gaines said he did not believe the people should be taxed for these "endless chain entertainments." He said he was sorry $500,000 had been spent to remodel the old White House.

Mr. Cannon, in reply, said he was glad the old White House had been overhauled, but he confessed that the executive offices had disappointed him.

"I think," said he, "we were entitled to a better building for the money."

REPLECTIS ON PRESIDENT.

Mr. Fitzgerald, of New York, referred to a newspaper report that Colonel Bingham's transfer had been due to his holding up certain vouchers in connection with the White House improvements and his opposition to the character of these improvements.

"Will not the gentleman believe what Colonel Bingham states, that he was transferred at his own request?" asked Mr. Graham, of Pennsylvania.

"Oh," replied Mr. Fitzgerald, "it is the common thing for officers whose future is in the service to make statements exenerating their superiors. But in my opinion it reflects upon the Tresident of the United States to have it intimated that an officer is being coerced into approving expenditures his judgment does not sanction.

He invelged against the growing extrava-gance in official circles the constant deinvelged against the growing extrava-games in official circles the constant de-mand for increased salaries and allow-ances. He described official functions as an attempt to imitate court circles abroad. He said that fifty years ago the white House receptions were very differ-ent, and farsimpler than they are to-day. It was a fact, he said, that poor men to-day could not accept positions in the Cabinet or on the bench because of the social expenses entailed, and he thought that an argument for a return to the simpler methods of the older days. the simpler methods of the older days. An amendment offered by Mr. Gaines to reduce the appropriation from $60,000 to $46,000 was voted down without division.

Mr. Jones, of Virginia, made a point of order against the item to appropriate $3.-000,000 for the relief of the distress in the Ob,000 for the relief of the distress in the Philippines "by the purchase and distribution or sale of farm implements, farm animals, supplies and necessaries of like and through the employment of labor in the construction of government wagon roads, rallroads, and other public works." He withdrew the point of order, however, upo rithe understanding with Mr. Cannon that the word "rallroads should be stricken out, and that provision should be made for a detniled report of expenditures under the appropriation.

The amendment suggested by Mr. Cannon was offered by him, and he explained the reasons which moved the committee, almost unanimously to report the item. He said the proposed relief was as necessary as that given Cuba and Porto Rico.

tionary character of the government. He asserted that the price of ten million dollars in cash, which the United States had agreed to pay to Colombia, was exorbitant, and more than was necessary in view of the former agreement to take $7,000,000. He also criticised the prevision for a perpetual annual payment of $250,000, and declared that in all probability much of these payments would go into the pockets of private individuals. In this connection he declared that a recent chief executive of the Colombian Government had sold out and abdicated for a million dollars. He repeated his declaration that the existing government has no power to enter into treaties and asserted that the treaty with that government would not be binding.

with that government would not be bindling.

Senator Cullom, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, made a brief speech in the middle of Senator Morgan's address. It was devoted to an explanation of the terms of the treaty.
Mr. Cullum gave especial attention to the criticism Senator Morgan had made on article 23, placing the control of the canal in charge of the Government of Colombia in case of trouble, and said that as the canal penetrates Colombian territory, the arrangement was equittable. Moreover, he thought it would be impossible to secure Colombia's sanction of the treaty under any other arrangeunent.

of the treaty under any other arrangement.

When an adjournment was suggested at 5:30 o'clock, Senator Morgan said that he would be prepared to go on all night if required to do so, but Senator Cullom replied that he had no intention of making such exaction. On the contrary, he added, he was ready to close the day's session at that time, but he was anxious to continue to-morrow. Senator Morgan was agreeable, but Senator Quay objected, saying that he could not at this time yield. Senator Morgan gave notice of thirty proposed amendments to the treaty. The first of these amendments of general importance to the body of the treaty is to article 2.

It provides for the ownership of the canal by the United States instead of a lease for a hundred years, to be renewed each century afterwards, as provided by the treaty as sent to the Senator

Article 3 is to be so amended as to have the canal zone include the cities of Panama and Colon, which are excluded in the official draft of the treaty. The provision for the joint committee of the United States to enforce police

The provision for the joint committee of the United States to enforce police and sanitary regulations is abolished, and this work is placed in the exclusive control of the United States. Article 4 is so altered to remove the peldge on the part of the United States not to increase its territory at the expense of any of the Central American republics. The pledge with reference to Colombia stands.

Article 23, which in the official text provides for the calling in of the United States forces at Colombia's instance, for the protection of the canval, is left with a plain provision requiring the government of Colombia to assume this duty. To that provision the following is added:

"The United States shall have the right at all times in its discretion to use its police and its land and anyal forces for these purposes.

mer for the purpose of studying conditions there.

"I do not believe the truth has ever been told in the United States regarding Philippine affairs," he said. "I want to get the truth at first hand."

By reason of his position on the Committee on Insular Affairs, Mr. Jones has become greatly interested in Uncle Sam's foreign possessions.

He does not think there will be any financial legislation for the Philippines at this session. The greatest victory any Democrat has won in this Congress was won by Mr. Jones when he get through the House the Philippine currency bill reported by the minority of the Committee on Insular Affairs. But the Senate Committee on the Philippines are ate Committee on the Philippines has reported practically the same bill as that which the Republicans reported to the House. It is not thought that the Senate will pass any bill.

INDIAN WAR RECORDS.

Mr. Moody, of Oregon, has introduced a bill in the House providing that the military records of the Indian wars or any other wars prior to the Civil War, now preserved in the Interior Department, betransferred to the War Department to be preserved in the Record and Pension Division of that department, and that they shall be properly indexed and arranged for use.

Representative Maynard is trying hard.

Pension Division of that department, and that they shall be properly indexed and arranged for use.

Representative Maynard I: trying hard to get an additional appropriation of $10,000 for the purchase of a site for a public building in Portsmouth. The sum of $15,000 has been appropriated, but the supervising architect of the Treasury has reported that the additional sum is necessary in order to secure a site. There is a fair prospect of securing the additional $10,000. But there is not much likelihood of an additional hundred thousand being appropriated for the new public building at Newport News, work on which has already commenced. The additional sum is desired to be expended in adding another story to the building in order to provide a Federal court room. Unless the appropriation be made very soon in order to admit of necessary changes in the plan it will be too late.

The six minority members of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commistee, Representatives Shackelford, Davey, Adamson, Ryan, Davis and Habardson (Alabams), also filed their views, Actor saying that they do not oppose the bill as reported and that it will not afford much relief, they add that the little of good that it does contain the people should have, Continuing, they say: "The bill now reported is not notify so farreaching and remedial as the Latticfield bill, which a few days ago passed this House on a roll call by unantinous vote, in debate on the Littlefield bill it was freely predicted that it would never become a law, and it was openly charged that its passage in this House was merely for the sinister purpose of begulling and deluding the people into the belief that the dominant party was willing to enact legislation limiting the evils of monepoly."

The minority proposes that the bill be amended by adding the principal features of the Littlefield bill.

The Senate Committee on the Judiciary continued its consideration of the trust question to-day, and after holding two sessions adjourned until to-morrow. The sessions adjourned until to-morrow. The committee was especially concerned to day in an effort to so amend the Little-field bill as not to make it burdensome to small corporations. It practically is the unanimous opinion of the committee that a bill should be enacted into law, but there is much difference as to the phraseology to be used.

The attention of many people was attracted yesterday evening to the remarkable sunset glow. The entire horizon north, east and south, as well as west was a bright red long after the sun had gone out of sight. OF KILLING GONZALES

Charley walked into the house and calling her by her pet name said:

"Mattle, suppose some rich girl would come along and want to marry me, what would you take for me? Would you take $0,000 if she offered it?"

"No; I wouldn't take $50,000, my gister answered playfully.

"She thought he was joking, but Charley was really in earnest. He exclaimed;

"My God, that's more than half her fortune, and five times what she told me to offer."

DESPRTED HIS WIFE.

"Then he left the room. Soon after that my sister became aware of his attentions to Miss Bradley. He met her through his livery business as he sent men ever to attend to her horses.

"After their meeting, he went often to the home she occupied with her cousta, Miss Dolly Talcott, telling his wife he was looking after her horses. My sister went to Miss Bradley and asked her to step receiving Charley. She said she would, as she could have plenty of single visitors, but she never did.

"Soon after that Charley walked into the house one day, and sald to his wife in the most matter of fact way." "Well, I've sold my business for $i," Where are you going, his wife asked him.

Tillman's affidavit says he had been abused and maligned by the editor of the State. He heard rumors that Mr. Gonzales had threatened him, and triends advised him to be on his guard. He was informed that Mr. Gonzales inquired for him at the State House, saying he would make him show the white feather, On the day of the shooting he happened to be moving some of his affects, including two pistols, from the State House, saying he had his rooms. He saw Mr. Gonzales combis glaring at him; saw him run his hard deep in his overcoat pooket and turn toward him, and believing his life in danger, he harviedly said: "I received your message," and fired. "I was very fond of Charley and helped him out on several occasions when he needed maney in his business. I have seen him since his return, and he told me that if he had it all to go over again he would not leave his wife.

"My mensy is all gone; nobody wants anything to do with me, and I can't get all would never leave my wife."

"Charley is goad-hearted, but wild and reckloss. He stmply became fascinated with Alica Bradley, and dropped everything for her."
